

Figure 1: The nodes A,B and C

4 Network topology

A simple topology, which doesn't impose any structure on the network, can be memorised with a simple map. In this map, all the information regarding the nodes of the network have to be memorized. Surely, this kind of map cannot be 1.

routing table of the kernel:
all the packets whose destination is g

